It is with great pleasure to write a letter of recommendation for Joe Kenney and his "Craz-zy Critters". Joe was kind enough to join us at a Blockbuster party celebrating the opening of the "Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull" on May 22, 2008. We first came across Joe's reptile expertise in the Boston Globe where he was stated to be the "modern-day Dr. Doolittle." We also read in his local newspaper, the Abington Mariner, that his display at a local function was packed with children eager to get a look at his exotic reptiles. We thought Joe would be a perfect fit for our Blockbuster party seeing as the Indiana Jones series is well known for having unique animals in the films.

The moment Joe took out his first iguana, he captured the attention of every individual that walked in the store, including the entire Blockbuster staff, the street team from Jam'n 94.5, and both Stephanie and myself. We were absolutely blown away by his extensive knowledge of every animal he brought into the store. When someone asked about an animal, whether it was about the animals' native land, eating habits, temperament or behavior, Joe had all the answers and more!

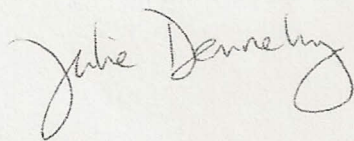

In addition, Joe handled the animals with the utmost care and caution. He made sure to take out only one animal at a time so he could keep track of them all. Joe has raised his animals so well that he was able to let people pet and hold the lizard, iguanas and tortoise that he brought along.

Even though Joe is fairly young, his knowledge and level of expertise with his animals is unprecedented. I have never met anyone with nearly as much passion and dedication as Joe has for his animals. He went above and beyond what I had expected for this event.

I could not have asked for the event to run any smoother. Joe and his helpers (his younger brother and father) arrived in plenty of time before the event in order to set up. Once the event began, there was no stopping Joe. He was attentive when people were asking questions and made sure to give them an accurate and complete answer. Joe managed his time wisely throughout the event to make sure that people had time with every animal.

I strongly recommend Joe Kenney and his "Craz-zy Critters" for educational and entertainment purposes at future festivals, parties or any other event suitable for reptiles.

Sincerely,
